Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,¹⁵ and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;¹⁶ in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.¹⁷ And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,¹⁵ and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;¹⁶ in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.¹⁷ And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; ¹⁶in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; ¹⁶in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,¹⁵ and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;¹⁶ in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.¹⁷ And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,¹⁵ and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;¹⁶ in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.¹⁷ And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." ^{Isaiah 27:11}. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; ¹⁶in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." ^{Eph. 6:14-17..}

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." ^{Isaiah 27:11}. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; ¹⁶in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." ^{Eph. 6:14-17..}

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." ^{Isaiah 27:11}. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; ¹⁶in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." ^{Eph. 6:14-17..}

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,¹⁵ and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;¹⁶ in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.¹⁷ And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; ¹⁶in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." Isaiah 27:11. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend. In fact, when you look up other passages that use that same Hebrew word it is a matter of wanting to know or not caring to understand. They don't know because they do not bother to know. They are satisfied living in oblivious ignorance, trust in other's guidance and not do that deep investigation of both the facts at hand and God's judgment on such events.

There is this popular idea that you are saved by grace and that is all that matters. When problems arise, some will say: "let go and let God." Yes, we must trust in God's providence and grace. Yet our calling is to seek and save the lost. How can we honor that mandate with the idea of "Don't know, Don't care?"

We are fishers of men. We are those who offer hope, we are disciples who follow in the footsteps of Jesus. So, with such a task Paul tells us to take up the full armor of God.

"Stand firm therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,¹⁵ and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;¹⁶ in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.¹⁷ And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." Eph. 6:14-17..

On judgment day, which is each and every day, the last thing our Lord wants to hear from our mouths is Don't know, don't care.

Don't Know, Don't Care

There are so many things in life beyond my comprehension. I'm not a physicist, doctors astound me with their insight and knowledge. In fact, outside of oil change and tire maintenance, I send my car to the mechanic. I don't know about so many things and I put my trust in other people. But when it comes to ethics, morality, character and doing the right thing it matters that I know and that I care. What I don't understand, I need to investigate, learn and choose the right path. Unfortunately, we live in a society where when it comes to right and wrong, justice or injustice, good or evil, we are far too willing to listen to the so-called experts and wash our hands of the matter. Then when things implode socially, spiritually and ethically, we are too quick to throw up our hands and say: "How was I to know? I only followed what I was told. Don't blame me, it wasn't my fault."

From Genesis to Revelation, we are called upon to understand and make the right choice. God's word guides in marriage, family, at work, with our neighbors and even our enemies. Daily listening to God's word we can daily apply it to what comes our way and even what we should seek to do for that abundant life Jesus speaks about. It is one thing to not know how to balance a check book (but please do learn) and quite another thing to not listen to God's word as to how to balance your life.

In Isaiah 27 the world is imploding all around. Wars are taking place, governments are falling apart, and the average man or woman is caught wondering how to react, what to do and who to trust. Naturally, the answer is to trust God. But Isaiah is writing to a people whose knowledge of God's word is comparable to my knowledge of quantum physics. They don't know because they just have really never bothered to seek to know or understand. Their views on current events are tied more to the daily news and not to God's word. Isaiah writes: "For they are not a people of discernment, Therefore, their Maker will not have compassion on them." ^{Isaiah 27:11}. "They are not a people of discernment/understanding..." It isn't a matter of knowledge beyond their ability to comprehend.
