"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

In the heat of the moment it is often very difficult to put aside one's bias. It was the Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw once said: "The moment we want to believe something, we suddenly see all the arguments for it, and become blind to the arguments against it,"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

"Buy truth, and do not sell it, Get wisdom and instruction and understanding." Prov. 23:23.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus).

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

In the heat of the moment it is often very difficult to put aside one's bias. It was the Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw once said: "The moment we want to believe something, we suddenly see all the arguments for it, and become blind to the arguments against it,"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus).

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; <sup>5</sup>one Lord, one faith, one baptism, <sup>6</sup>one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

In the heat of the moment it is often very difficult to put aside one's bias. It was the Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw once said: "The moment we want to believe something, we suddenly see all the arguments for it, and become blind to the arguments against it,"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus).

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. "I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus).

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus).

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

In the heat of the moment it is often very difficult to put aside one's bias. It was the Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw once said: "The moment we want to believe something, we suddenly see all the arguments for it, and become blind to the arguments against it,"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? "Buy truth, and do not sell it, Get wisdom and instruction and understanding." Prov. 23:23.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; <sup>5</sup>one Lord, one faith, one baptism, <sup>6</sup>one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus).

Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.

"I know what I believe?"

"Was my favorite player guilty of that foul call or was that referee bias against my hero?"

The problem with this quote is that even Bernard Shaw himself was a victim of this harsh reality. I fear all of us have those moments. Sometimes we want to believe something so passionately that we can only see the side we want to see and become both blind and deaf when others offer another view. It happens in families, politics, sports and of course also in religion. In matters of faith, you can pick almost any topic and find people who will passionately argue against the other. Is once saved always saved truth or deception? That depends on who you talk to. Is the Bible our authority for life with God or does some Pastor or some religious expert have all of the answers? What about questions of morality or judgment? If you really want to hear endless debate, then open up the book of Revelation and stand back and watch the feathers fly as everyone has their view or conviction.

So, what should we do? Two responses come to mind and neither are as simple as we would like. First, choose humility over pride. A closed mind has its roots in arrogance and pride as I think that I know I am right. In a debate, I won't listen or consider, I just plow my narrative forward and my opponent will likely do the same. But Solomon says: "A poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive instruction." Ecc. 4:13. This seems to be a lesson few learn but instead only most become more prideful with age and less teachable. The paradox is that we all know this in theory but few apply it in practice.

The second step is to invest your heart, soul, mind and even your muscle into finding truth. That is the lesson of the pearl of great price. It is worth all you possess to know truth.

That doesn't necessarily mean an expensive library but you do the hard work to learn, verify and confirm that which is truth. Just because you heard it in the internet is hardly reason to embrace it or parrot such lessons. Also, just because the preacher was passionate and charismatic in his delivery does not make it truth. It is a difficult challenge to separate the wheat from the tares but it is vital if we are to learn, live and share with others God's wonderful truths.

Most modern believers seem to be convinced that all roads lead to heaven, that as long as you are sincere, all will be fine. But our Lord said: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the Father except through Me." John 14:6. (And that doesn't mean there are 50 ways to come to Jesus). Paul told the Ephesians: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; <sup>5</sup>one Lord, one faith, one baptism, <sup>6</sup>one God and Father of all who is over all and through all and in all." Eph. 4:4-6.

Today there is a desire among many to embrace anyone who is kind, sincere and devoted. The final judgment will not be mine but God's. Nevertheless, we are commanded to:

"preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but wanting to have their ears tickled, they will accumulate for themselves teachers in accordance to their own desires," 2 Tim. 4:2-3. So, in love we must humble ourselves, put aside pride and dedicate ourselves to seeking truth even when it is uncomfortable, even when it is not popular. So, let us listen, consider, learn and above all else, live God's path. The truth will make you free but only if you abide in that truth, make it a part of your mind, heart, soul and body.
